

The Adventure of Steve

Steve is walking through The Terrifying Nether in search of a diamond block which is marked by an 'X' on his map. To the naked eye Steve is just a regular human being, but at night in the World of The Nether he becomes an extreme sword fighter with kung fu skills. The Terrifying Nether is home to The Blaze. This is a flame throwing monster with orange spikes up his back and red angry eyes. What Steve is yet to find out is that The Blaze is guarding the Diamond block.

Steve is crossing a stone bridge which takes him over a pit of larva. Just as he reaches halfway, the bridge in front of him collapses and he drops his map... he watches, helplessly, as it burns away. He now must figure out how to get across and how to find the diamond. He finds a stick which he uses to help him propel across the gap.

Once on the other side of the pit, he realises that the collapsing of the bridge has set a timer for 10 days for him to find the diamond. He realises that on the 10th day the whole Nether will go BOOM!!! . . .

But then The Blaze strikes. He uses a flame throwing attack towards Steve. Even though it would waste his sword, Steve turns his sword to create a protective shield and blocks the attack.

He kills The Blaze just with a swing of his now broken sword and diamond is released so Steve gets the diamond.

Then Steve makes a friend named Alex who he rescues from The Blaze's grasp. By using a crafting table, Steve makes the diamond into a diamond sword. The next book is Alex's Adventure.

The end.

Good bye! This book is based on Minecraft and the characters are Steve, Alex and The Blaze.
