

Chloe and Bob's Snowy Day.

One snowy day, two little grey cats called Chloe and Bob, decided to go sledding on the hill behind their house. They asked their good friend, Ice Cream Pig, if he would like to go with them.

"No thank you" said Ice Cream Pig "It's too cold for me" which was strange coming from a pig who used to sell ice cream.

They asked their friend Blaze the technical sheep, if he would like to come.

"Oh yes please! I'd love to come!" he said. Blaze got his nickname 'the technical sheep' because he was really good at anything to do with computers!

The three friends got themselves wrapped up warm, and set off up the hill with their brightly coloured sledges. Chloe's sledge was purple, Bob's was red and Blaze had a bright orange and yellow sledge that looked like fire and went very well with his name.

Once they got to the top of the field, they set off. They had lots of fun whooshing down the hill! All of them were laughing at each other. Suddenly, Blaze's sledge hit a rock and threw him into the air! He fell on the cold, hard ground. Chloe and Bob rushed to help.

"Are you OK Blaze?" asked Chloe.

"I think I've twisted my ankle!" replied Blaze.

"Do you think you can walk?" asked Bob.

"No, I don't think so. It hurts too much" cried Blaze.

"Don't worry Blaze! I've had an idea." said Chloe.

Chloe and Bob carefully helped Blaze to sit back on his sledge, and then they tugged the sledge between them and pulled him slowly all the way home.

Ice Cream Pig was waiting for them. He was worried because it was starting to get dark. When he saw them out of the window, he dashed to the front door.

"Hey, what happened!?" he called out.

"Blaze had an accident," Bob said. "He's hurt his ankle."

"Oh no!" said Ice Cream Pig "Lets get him inside. I'll get a bandage."

Chloe and Bob helped their friend Blaze to a comfy spot on the sofa and covered him with a blanket. Just then, Ice Cream Pig came back into the room with a bandage and a tray of hot chocolate drinks to warm everyone up. "The weather forecast is for more snow tonight" said Ice Cream Pig.

"I don't think we should go sledding tomorrow!" said Chloe, and they all laughed.